

Non-Boring Writing Prompts

Write about a door that won't open.

Write about a series of unfortunate events.

Write a character sketch for an unlikely villain: an elderly woman.

Think of your nastiest customer service experience, then write a fictional lead-up to that representative's interaction with you.

Write about a voyage. It can be around the world or around town.
What is being sought?

Write about the arrival of an unexpected letter.

Think of your two favorite series. Select the hero from one and the villain from the other. Then switch their roles and genders.
The female heroine becomes the villain; the male villain becomes the female heroine.

Write about a secret that spills at a dinner party.

Write about a waiter who receives a $1,000 tip.

Write about mistaken identity at the grocery store.